Greater use of juvenile civil citations sought

The Ledger Thursday 15th September, 2016

Civil citations serve as an alternative to arresting youths for incidents such as fighting, minor drug and alcohol offenses and petty theft. Instead of being arrested, the offenders are required to do such things as community service and writing letters of apology to their victims. Although the use of civil citations has increased recently, about 12,000 Florida youths were arrested for those types of misdemeanors last year. Children's advocates said a majority of the youths should have been instead given civil citations, as juvenile records can prevent young people from renting apartments, enter...
